PREFACE.

We send forth our work, fully realizing that perfection is unattainable; yet so carefully and thoroughly has the labor been performed, that it will certainly prove to be generally correct and satisfactory.

In compiling this volume we have given our particular attention to what has heretofore been considered as only a secondary matter. Appreciating the fact that the mere insertion of matter in a work of this nature is not enough, if the arrangement of it cannot be readily comprehended, we have endeavored to arrange each portion in natural and intelligible order, and so greatly facilitate reference. It is easily understood how essential are our alphabetical lists of names, as an index, as it were, to the classified headings.

The circulation is the largest and the price the smallest of any similar work heretofore published. We improve this opportunity of thanking our numerous patrons and all those who have contributed to further the work of our special representatives; also, our kind friends in remote places who have forwarded information to us.

EXPLANATION.

The arrangement of our work is as follows:

The different States and Territories are first arranged according to their rank.

The towns of each State and Territory are arranged alphabetically under their respective State or Territory, with the business names alphabetically under each town. The business names of each State and Territory are again classified under their proper business headings.

San Francisco will also be found following the advertising department, first alphabetically, and again classified under the proper business headings.

An Index to all of the towns can be seen in its proper place in front of book.

Anaheim.

LOS ANGELES COUNTY.

Is situated inland 9 miles, 30 miles south of Los Angeles. The vicinity was colonized by Germans in 1857, and that element largely predominates in the present population of the town, which is about 1,500. The climate is excellent, the high temperature natural to this latitude being tempered by sea breezes. The enterprise and sagacity of the business community bespeaks for Anaheim a brilliant future.

Chico,

BUTTE COUNTY,

The largest town in the county, with a population of 3,000, is situated on the Central Pacific Railroad, 95½ miles above Sacramento, and 25 miles northwest of Oroville, the county seat. Agriculture is the chief source of support; but the lumber trade has of late years become also quite a means of wealth, together with its adjacent mining interests, making it a flourishing town.

Colusa,

COLUSA COUNTY,

The largest town and the county seat of Colusa County, is a thriving and prosperous place, situated in the upper Sacramento valley. The growth of the town has been slow but sure, and there are still good openings for enterprising business men. Being situated in one of the most agricultural districts of the State, its resources are therefore of the most substantial character.

Dutch Flat,

PLACER COUNTY,

One of the oldest mining towns in the State, is the largest and most important place in Placer County. It is no longer a mining camp of uncertain longevity, but a permanent town with a certain future. The same localities where once the individual miner built his solitary cabin, set his stakes and washed or rocked out a fortune in a few weeks or months, are now held by large companies made up of capitalists, or, as in the case of Alvinza Hayward, owned by men of immense wealth. Improvements are continually being made in and about the place. The latest addition to the many good and even handsome buildings is the school-house, which for commodiousness and beauty has not an equal outside of the large cities. A well edited independent newspaper, the "Forum," is issued Thursday of every week. The population is estimated at 2,000.

Grass Valley,

NEVADA COUNTY,

Is an early town of California, situated in a fine valley, near the base of the Sierra Nevadas. Placer mining was its first support, but it has since become renowned for its quartz mines. The town has steadily increased in population, wealth and importance since its very first settlement. Its resources are almost exclusively mineral, and so extensive as to render this place one of the wealthiest in the State. It has a population of 7,500.

Independence,

INYO COUNTY,

The county seat of Inyo; has a population of about 400. It is a thriving, compactly-built town, the Courthouse and many of the business and private buildings presenting a handsome appearance. It is situated near the center of Owen's Valley, surrounded by a successful agricultural region, and is within from 8 to 40 miles of the most celebrated of Inyo silver and base metal mines. Both industries contribute to its support. Has two daily stage lines running north and south, connecting with the Virginia and Truckee Railroad at Carson and the Southern Pacific Railroad at Mohave. A newspaper, the "Inyo Independent," is published weekly.

Los Angeles,

LOS ANGELES COUNTY,

Is the county seat of Los Angeles County, is situated on the Los Angeles river, and is distant 17 miles from the Pacific ocean. The city was originally settled by the Spaniards, many of whose descendants are still among its most worthy inhabitants. Until 1860 but little progress was made, but since that time it has received constant accessions to its population, and now numbers about 17,000 people. It is situated in the finest agricultural country of southern California, and is the center of five different railroads—thus being in position to afford a market for the southern part of the State and Arizona. The climate is excelled by that of no other city in the world; vegetation grows the whole year round. Los Angeles is in the center of the best wine-producing region of the State, and the quantity annually exported reaches into millions of gallons. The orange groves of Los Angeles are the finest in the world.

Marysville,

YUBA COUNTY,

Is the largest city in the State north of Sacramento, and is the county seat of Yuba County. Situated at the junction of the Yuba and Feather rivers, it has a commercial interest of considerable value, as the Yuba is navigable for steamers of light draught the entire year. It was first surveyed in 1849, but not incorporated until

"The Paper Warehouse of the Pacific Coast," A. D. Pennington, 409, 411, 413, 415, Sansome Street, San Francisco, Cal.

H. Wachhorst calls attention to his Genuine Sterling Silverware, 79 J st, Sac.

ANTISELL PIANOS, best in use, 865 Market Street, San Francisco.

1851. Until 1857 it grew rapidly, when, with the decline of the placer mining, it also declined and steadily decreased in population until about eight years since, when it began to revive, and has since become a thoroughly enterprising and lively place. Through its railroad advantages, connecting it with many of the largest towns and cities of the State, it has become the central point of northern California. Its population is estimated at about 7,000.

Monterey,

MONTEREY COUNTY.

Probably no place in California contains so much of interest to the traveler as Monterey. Its natural advantages are unequaled in many respects. It has one of the finest harbors in the world, and many predict for it a great future as a commercial center. The climate is considered one of the most delightful in the world, being neither too hot nor too cold. Flowers bloom perpetually. For bathing purposes the beach is unsurpassed. There are many objects of historical interest in and around the town to attract the curious, the old Catholic church, built in 1794, commanding undoubtedly the largest share of attention; and all who devote an hour or so to examining its sacred precincts feel well repaid for the time thus spent. Time and space forbid our enumerating more of this most interesting old town, California's ancient capital, and we therefore leave the rest for the inquirer to learn from more complete historical sketches. Population 1,200.

Nelson,

BUTTE COUNTY.

A thriving town on the Oregon and California line of railroad, surrounded by a vast area of wheat growing land, the soil of which is heavy adobe and inexhaustible. The neighboring mountains, with their extensive and yet undeveloped lumber resources, must some day come to Nelson for an outlet to other parts of the State. There is a flourishing lodge of I. O. of G. T., and but one saloon, a fact that is worthy of note.

Nevada City,

NEVADA COUNTY.

Situated but four miles from Grass Valley, has an advantage over that place from its local position, and being the county seat. It is one of the finest mining towns of the State, its mines yielding it is said upwards of $1,000,000 annually. It has an excellent agricultural district surrounding it, which adds very materially to its wealth, but its chief support is its mineral productions. Its population numbers 3,500.

Oakland,

ALAMEDA COUNTY,

Is situated on the east shore of San Francisco Bay, opposite and about six miles distant from San Francisco. The city receives its name from groves of evergreen oaks, which covered the ground which it now occupies. It is a beautiful and rapidly growing city, its population having increased about 19,000 in the past five years it now numbering 30,000. It is the point of the railroad system of the Pacific Coast. Its educational facilities are unlimited. The University of California is located at Berkeley, a village, it may be said, in the suburbs of Oakland. Several private schools and seminaries of excellence are located here, and the public schools are of a high order. The State asylum for the education of the deaf, mute and blind is particularly interesting to visitors. The climate is probably the most healthful and desirable of any city in the State, it never being subject to the excessive heat of the interior towns, and protected from the winds and fogs which at seasons of the year render living in San Francisco very unpleasant.

Oroville,

BUTTE COUNTY.

An exceedingly pleasant town, situated in the foothills, about 28 miles from Marysville, and is connected by rail with that place. In early days it was a very prosperous place, owing its prosperity to its rich placer mines, but, like the neighboring town of Marysville, with the decline of those mines its decline was dated, and from a population of 12,000 it was reduced to a few hundreds. Agriculture has since become its main support. Within the past five years it has steadily improved, and its inhabitants now number 2,000. It is the county seat of Butte County.

Magnificent assortment of Chains, Cuticlains, Guards, etc., at H. Wachhorst's, 79 J st

regarded as one of the most promising in the State, as, unlike the majority of cities and towns of California, speculation has had no part in its growth, it having simply and steadily kept pace with the surrounding country, which is purely agricultural, and yielding almost every variety of fruit, grain, and vegetables in abundance. The population of the city is estimated at 5,000.

Placerville,

EL DORADO COUNTY,

Is an incorporated city and county seat of El Dorado County, situated in the foothills of the Sierras, about 50 miles from Sacramento. Is the oldest town in the mining district, it having been settled in 1848. It was originally known as Hangtown, but as the town grew and advanced in importance the citizens changed it to its present name. With the transfer of travel to other routes, and the decline in mining, the place declined, and its population was reduced to less than 1,000. But with the interests of agriculture, the prospects of the town have been brightening, and the population now numbers 1,700.

Sacramento,

SACRAMENTO COUNTY.

The varied history of this city is too well known to all business persons and readers of this country to need repetition in this work. Suffice it to say it has survived the direst calamities and adversities—fire and flood—and holds its place among the most flourishing cities of the coast. The latest estimation of its population is about 22,500. It being centrally located, and the capital of the State, attracts an excellent business to the place, and the capital building, with its surrounding beautifully laid-out and well-kept park, calls a visit from the pleasure-seeking tourist. The city itself is so quietly beautiful that it cannot fail to create a feeling of pleasure in every one beholding it. Most of the cities and towns of the coast are easily accessible from here, either by rail or steamboat, and it is but 84 miles distant from San Francisco, or a ride of by rail of about five hours' duration via Vallejo, and from seven to eight hours via the overland route.

ADAMS, McNEILL & CO, Wholesale grocers, 91, 93, 95 Front

The firm is composed of L. S. Adams, who resides in San Francisco, and John McNeill, of Sacramento. The business is strictly an importing and wholesale grocery business, and is one of the largest business houses in the city. The house was established in 1851, under the firm name of Sneath, Arnold & Co.; afterwards changed to John Arnold & Co., and in 1866 to present style of Adams, McNeill & Co., and has steadily gone forward increasing both its business facilities and its volume of trade, until it ranks among the first for enterprise and sound business qualities. They are first hands for more than three-fourths of the goods in which they deal, and keep a choice line of specialties, which are notable for their uniformity and high standard excellence. The warrant of quality in any line of their goods has always been considered a sufficient recommendation for the sale of the goods, and is a reputation that has been secured only by a faithful and exact adherence to the principle of selling everything upon its merits. Their teas are packed expressly for them by their own agents at Kanagawa, and their imports of Eastern groceries were larger last year than any other house in the city.

Salinas City,

MONTEREY COUNTY,

Has for its site one of the finest in the State. The Salinas river, upon which it is situated, though not navigable, is clear and swift, and possesses many attractions for the city. The city was first surveyed and platted in 1868, and has grown rapidly ever since. It is situated 118 miles from San Francisco. Salinas has every advantage for becoming a large and prosperous town, for being, as it is, a comparatively new town, it has made rapid strides in its progress. Its facilities for transportation of grain and produce are excellent, thus assuring no little commercial importance. Population 4,000.

SAN BERNARDINO COUNTY,

Is situated 2¼ miles from Colton station, on the SPRR, 60 miles from Los Angeles, and in one of the best watered and most picturesque valleys in the State. Here, truly, can one realize the perfection of California climate. The present population is about 2,500. Principal among its industries are a woolen mill, fruit packing and wood working establishment, brick yard and broom factories, as well as many thriving businesses. The school and church accommodations are excellent.

San Buenaventura,

VENTURA COUNTY,

County seat of Ventura, is beautifully situated immediately on the coast, 30 miles south of Santa Barbara, 70 miles north of Los Angeles, and 380 miles by sea from San Francisco. The population, computed from the vote at the last election, is about 2,000. Rock soap mining, coal oil refining, a grist mill, and a planing mill are among its principal industries. J. Richardson's steam furniture factory at this place is the most extensive south of San Francisco. Two weekly newspapers, "The Ventura Free Press" and "Ventura Signal," are published here.

San Diego,

SAN DIEGO COUNTY,

Situated 446 miles from San Francisco, near the southern extremity of the State. The beautiful bay on which it is situated is one of the most harbors in the world, and many predict for it a great future as a commercial center. The locality is distinguished for the salubrity of the climate, making it very desirable as a place of residence. Several surveys of railroad routes have been made, which will soon place it in communication with the railroad system of the State. Its population is now estimated at about 5,000.

San Jose,

SANTA CLARA COUNTY.

San Jose, the beautiful, is the home of wealth and refinement, well deserving its appellation. It is the county seat of Santa Clara County, and has a population of 17,000, which is rapidly increasing. The Court House is the best of its class in the State. The State Normal School building, a beautiful edifice, with a frontage of 172 feet, is located here. The new building of the University of the Pacific, an institution under the control of the Methodist church, is situated between San Jose and Santa Clara, and is an additional ornament to the beautiful avenue known as "The Alameda." Its streets are broad and macadamized. In the principal street is a railroad for horse-cars, running through the Alameda, three miles to Santa Clara. The Alameda, which distinguishes San Jose, is a street, on either side of which are trees that meet and form a bower, for which we have to thank the Padres of the Mission, as they were planted by them in 1799.

San Luis Obispo.

SAN LUIS OBISPO COUNTY.

Is delightfully situated nine miles from San Luis harbor, and has railway communication with Harford's Landing. The present population numbers about 3,000—an industrious and enterprising business community. Several San Luis institutions, by their appointments, exhibit a spirit of enterprise which, we trust, will eventually culminate in a railroad connection between this pleasant little town and the outside world. To those visiting Paso Robles Springs, we would recommend the steamer route via San Luis as the most comfortable means of approach.

Santa Barbara,

SANTA BARBARA COUNTY,

Is the county seat of Santa Barbara County, and is one of the pleasantest towns in California. Near the town is an old Mission, founded in 1780. The steamers and vessels touch here on their regular trips up and down the coast, and the stages which connect with the railroad. The climate is singularly equable and healthy, the temperature varying but a few degrees during the year. The town is fast becoming a resort for invalids from all parts of the United States. Has a population estimated at 6,000.

Santa Cruz,

SANTA CRUZ COUNTY.

This beautiful city is located on Monterey Bay, in the southeastern portion of Santa Cruz County, in one of the most delightful spots in the State, 120 miles from San Francisco. It is noted for the beauty and variety of its surrounding scenery, and health-fulness of climate, which have made the city widely known and the most popular summer resort of California for invalids and pleasure seekers. It is but seven miles distant from the Big Tree Grove, which can be reached by rail, if desirable. It has had a steady and permanent growth, and has become a populous and thriving city, claiming a population of 6,000. The chief interest of the country surrounding is man-mountain road leads off to Trinity River and the Siskiyou and Klamath country, is situated the pleasant and healthful little town of Shasta, with its population of a thousand souls. In its early history it was known as "Reading's Springs," but afterwards named in honor of the grand old mountain peak overlooking that region. It has once been one of the richest mining towns in the State, and is still the center of a rich placer and quartz mining district, though not so extensive as formerly; still is the favored place of residence of many of the early settlers of that region. About one hundred square miles of the surrounding country is covered with fir and pine timber of the finest quality.

Stockton,

SAN JOAQUIN COUNTY,

The county seat of San Joaquin County, is situated at the head of a slough of San Joaquin river. The surrounding country is very fertile, and contributory to its interests are large mining districts. The Central Pacific Railroad passes through the town, thus connecting it with all places of importance in the United States. The city is supplied with water by an artesian well 1,002 feet deep. The State Insane Asylum is situated in this place. The town is in a very prosperous condition, and has a population of 14,000. It is 92 miles from San Francisco.

Tehama,

TEHAMA COUNTY,

Twelve miles south of Red Bluff, is situated on the west bank of the Sacramento in a very pleasant locality. It depends entirely upon the products of the soil for its resources, and is the most northerly of the exclusively agricultural towns of the State—though Red Bluff is termed a town of that class—and is situated to the north of Tehama, yet it depends more upon its commerce than agriculture.

Vallejo,

SOLANO COUNTY,

A town of about 4,600 inhabitants, 28 miles from San Francisco. It is the terminus of the California Pacific Railroad. The Orphans' Home, belonging to the Order of Good Templars, is located here, and quite an ornament to the place. The United States Navy Yard, at Mare Island contributes largely to the support of the town, furnishing employment to a large number of men.

Yreka,

SISKIYOU COUNTY,

A mining town and the county seat, situated on the line of the Oregon and California Stage Company, 115 miles north of Reading, and 265 of San Francisco. The population of Yreka is reduced and business somewhat depressed at present; but it is only apparent when its present aspect is contrasted with its appearance in the days of gold. Considerable business is transacted in the old town still. It is the trading point for the agricultural country of the vicinity, as well as for the numerous surrounding mining claims still being worked. Population at present is about 1,900. Climate excellent.

NEVADA

Lies between the thirty-fifth and forty-second degrees of north latitude and between the one hundred and fourteenth and one hundred and twentieth degrees of longitude west of Greenwich. Is bounded on the west by California, on the east by Utah and Arizona, on the north by Oregon, on the south by California. Nevada contains 112,090 square miles or 71,650,000 acres. Organized as a State in 1864. Her mineral resources are her principal wealth. The whole State is an elevated plain with an average altitude of about 4,000 feet above the level of the sea. There are many mountain ranges running mostly in a northerly and southerly direction, being separated by valleys varying in width from five to twenty miles. The water runs in opposite directions in alternate valleys. Besides the mineral wealth, rich fertile valleys intersperse nearly the whole State, making excellent farms and stock ranges.

Austin,

LANDER COUNTY,

The seat of justice of Lander County, at an altitude of 6,500 feet, is the oldest established mining town of Eastern Nevada, situated 90 miles from Battle Mountain and 6 miles from the renowned Reese River, near the summit of the Toyabe range of mountains. The fine brick Courthouse, school houses and churches give to this mountain town an air of thrift and enterprise. The place supports a daily paper, the "Reveille," of which Booth & Hart are the publishers. Austin is connected with the Central Pacific Railroad by stage at Battle Mountain. Population about 2,000.

Battle Mountain,

LANDER COUNTY,

Is situated at the junction of the Reese River and Humboldt Valleys, at an elevation of 4,511 feet. Has a population of 350. C. C. Haynes runs a daily line of stages from here to Tuscarora. There is also a daily line from here to Austin and Belmont. Three miles south of Battle Mountain are the springs from which the town is supplied with water. Also here is situated the mountain from which the station derives its name. This mountain was once the scene of a fierce battle between the Indians and some emigrants camped near by, in which both parties suffered a considerable loss, but the white men came off conquerers.

Carson City,

ORMSBY COUNTY,

The capital of the State of Nevada, is situated on the west bank of the Carson River, in Eagle Valley, which is noted as rivaling all others in the State in point of agricultural qualities. Carson is the county seat of Ormsby County. The place derives its name from the celebrated trapper, Kit Carson, and is the oldest town in the State. The beautiful and finely finished Capitol building, the substantial structure of the United States Mint, and the State Penitentiary, a mile and a half from town, are points of great interest to visitors. Its population numbers some 9,000. Although Eagle Valley, in which Carson is situated, is largely agricultural, yet its main reliance is the wood and timber trade, the mountains around affording an almost inexhaustible supply.

Six hundred and six miles from San Francisco. It is the regular eating station of the road. The county seat of Elko County, on the line of the Central Pacific Railroad, has an elevation of 5,065 feet, and contains about 1,200 inhabitants. A fine brick Courthouse adorns the town, as well as Battle Mountain; is a station for Tuscarora. The State University is located here, a brick building erected four years ago at a cost of $15,000. About one and a half miles from the town is a group of six springs, three hot and three cold.

Gold Hill,

STOREY COUNTY,

Is an incorporated mining town, situated so near to Virginia that the two places are fast merging into one. The town is a busy thriving place, such as prosperous mining towns are wont to be. One half of the celebrated silver-producing Comstock lodes is within its municipal limits, and Gold Canon contains the works of some of the most noted silver mines in the world. There are upwards of 7,000 inhabitants in Gold Hill, and everything in and about the place indicates a stirring and thriving community.

Reno,

WASHOE COUNTY,

Located on the Central Pacific Railroad and Truckee River, 154 miles from Sacramento. It is connected with Virginia and Carson City by the Virginia and Truckee railroad. The town is rapidly improving, and has a very good district surrounding it. It is the county seat of Washoe County, and has a population of 3 300. Should the new railroad that is now contemplated be built from Reno to Virginia, it will make Reno the best town in the State.

OREGON

Is the most northwesterly of any of the United States. It is situated between the forty-second and forty-sixth degrees of northern latitude; bounded on the north by the Columbia River; on the south by the States of California and Nevada; on the east by Idaho Territory; and on the west by the Pacific Ocean. Oregon contains 95,274 square miles or 60,000,000 acres. Although this immense tract of land is not politically divided, a natural division is made by the Cascade Mountains, running through the State north and south. In the course of time this range may divide the Commonwealth into two distinct States.

Differences are noticeable between Eastern and Western Oregon, and principally as regards their respective climate features—the western part of the State being the most humid, and again not subjected to such extremes of heat and cold as the eastern country. It must be remembered that when we speak of extremes of heat and cold, we speak from a Pacific coast stand point, and not by comparison with the extremes experienced at the same latitude east of the Rocky Mountains.

Oregon is equally blessed all over her broad area with land of uniform richness. The stories told of her fertility seem fabulous to the new-comer; but the statistics of exports from this State amply prove an unequaled proportion of production to each inhabitant. Not a tithe of the lands susceptible of cultivation are at present occupied, and the hand of welcome is extended to every one who comes from a less favored country to help develop her latent resources.

Thousands of acres of excellent Government lands are open to occupation in the eastern part of the State; while in the western portion farms are sold at nominal prices. Nor are the advantages which Oregon offers to the immigrant disregarded.

The report on immigration to the Portland Board of Trade, shows an increase of population during the year ending July, 1877, to be 11,600 persons. This would have been bettered if the State Legislature had passed the "Immigration Bill," appropriating $5,000 per year for immigration purposes.

The Land Department of the Oregon & California Railroad Company has done and is doing much to make known and bring forth Oregon's latent wealth. Witness the prosperity of the beautiful Willamette Valley, to which portion of the State their chief energies have been devoted.

Oregon's outlet, the Columbia River, is a great source of wealth, outside of its utility as a highway. The amount of Columbia River salmon shipped from Portland during the year ending August, 1877, was 350,598 cases, valued at $2,588,180.

COLUMBIA RIVER FISHERIES ON OREGON SIDE.—Jackson, Myers & Co., Ranier, 48; James Quinn, Quinn's, 91; J. West & Co., Westport, 70; Watson & Bannon, Manhattan, 85; Oregon Packing Co., Clifton, 86; Hepburn & Co., Woody Island, 95; Warren & Co., Brownsport, 98; Watson Brothers, Tongue Point, 103; Badollet & Co., Upper Astoria, 103; Bradley, Davis & Co., Upper Astoria, 109; Fishermen's Packing Co., Upper Astoria, 109; Anglo-American Packing Co., Upper Astoria, 109; J. O. Hanthorn & Co., Upper Astoria, 109; John A. Devlin & Co., Upper Astoria, 109; A. Booth & Co., Upper Astoria, 109; George W. Hume, Astoria, 110; Scrudger & Co., Astoria, 110; Kinney & Co., Astoria, 110.

Considering Oregon's limited population, and the small outlet there is for the eastern country products, the showing of exports in the report of the Board of Trade of Portland, is astonishing. The grain, flour, lumber, hides, salmon, treasure, coals, wool, and beef, shipped from this State during the year ending August 1st, 1877, represents $11,571,455.

The gold and silver mines of Oregon are being developed of late; wherever there has been judicious prospecting the industry has turned out profitable to individuals. Grant, Jackson, Josephine, and Baker Counties are really rich in the precious metals.

The natural scenery of Oregon equals anything on the American continent; far excelling the mediocre that is sometimes called "grand." Tourists to the Pacific coast are generally uninformed of the beauties of a trip up the Columbia, or of the magnificent landscapes of Southern Oregon. Our limited space prevents us from doing justice to this fruitful theme; but we feel in duty bound to recommend to our Eastern visitors the round trip as follows: From San Francisco to Portland by sea, thence to Walla Walla by the Oregon Steam Navigation Company's well-appointed Columbia River steamers; return to the metropolis, and make the overland trip [illegible] Southern Pacific and Central Pacific back to San Francisco. The latter trip is replete with awe-inspiring scenes and surprising situations. The grand old Mount Shasta lies on this line of route, and a visit to its towering summit is one of the greatest objects of thousands.

Albany.

LYNN COUNTY.

Albany, Lynn County, county seat, is situated on the Oregon and California Railroad, and on the south bank of the Willamette River, 81 miles above Portland. The shipments of wheat from this city are something enormous, it being favorably situated in one of the most extensive wheat growing countries in the State. Chief among its enterprises is the Albany and Santiam Canal, which brings immense water power from the Santiam River into Albany, a distance of 15 miles, affording unlimited supply for as many manufacturing enterprises as may be established. The Courthouse, which cost $35,000, is an imposing structure. Albany is possessed of two newspapers, two flouring mills, foundry, two sash factories, bag factory, several grain elevators, and a flax twine factory. Population 3,500.

Baker City,

BAKER COUNTY.

Baker City is situated in the verdant Powder River Valley, and is the largest town in Eastern Oregon, with one exception, having about 800 inhabitants. It is on the line of the Northwestern stages, 125 miles northwest of Boise City, Idaho Territory, has thorough telegraph communication, and many natural advantages. A weekly newspaper is published here. The industries in this vicinity are divided between agriculture and mining.

La Grande,

UNION COUNTY,

Is situated on the NW, State road, 90 miles from the Columbia River at Umatilla, where the road emerges into the Grande Ronde Valley. An effort is being made to build a railroad from this place to a convenient point on the Columbia River, and there is great public feeling in the enterprise. The development of this splendid vicinity will be upbill work until there is a railroad outlet. The town of La Grande has about 300 inhabitants.

Portland,

MULTNOMAH COUNTY,

Is the county seat of Multnomah, and the principal commercial center of the State. It is situated on the left bank of the Willamette, about twelve miles from its junction with the Columbia River. It is practically a seaport, the Willamette being navigable to this point for ocean vessels. To this, and the other fact, that excepting Astoria, there is no other port on the Oregon coast accessible to vessels of deep draught, the growth of the place is mainly due, as it naturally became the shipping point for the products of the entire Willamette Valley. The site of the city is very fine. It is regularly laid out with wide, graded, and paved streets. Its business streets contain many fine edifices that would do credit to any American city. The same can be said of its private residences. Its public buildings are also very creditable; the theater over the new market is a very handsome structure, and the Postoffice and Custom House building is the finest devoted to those purposes on the Pacific coast. The city has good schools of various grades, among them the National Business College, established in 1866, several banks with a large working capital, manufacturing establishments, hotels of every class, street cars, and gas and water. It has telegraphic communication with all parts of the world, and boasts of three daily and several weekly papers. An insurance association, the North Pacific Life, incorporated in 1874, with a cash capital of $100,000, is doing a thriving business. It is the only insurance corporation in Oregon. A very active wholesale and retail trade in almost every mercantile branch is carried on. Portland is increasing in importance, and we predict for her a brilliant future. Population, about 14,000.

Roseburg,

DOUGLAS COUNTY.

The present terminus of the O & CRR, also the end of the O & C Stage Co, which over runs daily stages south to Redding. Roseburg is the center of an extensive farming district, is the shipping point for Southern Oregon, is the county seat, and has about 1,000 inhabitants. The above acquired advantages and the spirit of the 1,000 inhabitants speak well for its future.

Salem,

MARION COUNTY,

The Capital of the State, situated on the O. & C. RR. 50 miles above Portland. It is conceded to be the prettiest town in Oregon. Among its most important architectural features are the commanding State buildings, the County Courthouse and the Chemeketa Hotel. Its admired private buildings are as numerous as they are in excellent taste. The streets of Salem are wide and improved, and make good thoroughfares. Its several newspapers (daily and weekly), and extensive manufacturing enterprises, are prospering. O. F. Dennis'

The Dalles,

WASCO COUNTY.

"The Dalles" is a flourishing town of 1,500 inhabitants. It is the center of an extensive agricultural and stock country, and is the county seat of Wasco. An enterprising spirit pervades the business community, with whom prosperity is evident to the most casual observer. Dalles City is situated on the Columbia River, 210 miles from its mouth, and 110 miles from Portland, with which place there is a daily communication by O S N Co steamers. The traveling public receive gentlemanly treatment at the Pioneer Hotel.

WASHINGTON TERRITORY,

Situated at the extreme northwestern corner of the United States. It is bounded on the north by British Columbia; on the south by the State of Oregon; on the east by Idaho Territory; and on the west by the Pacific Ocean. Like Oregon, it is divided by the Cascade range of mountains; and the same differences of climate and amount of humidity are experienced between east and west.

In this magnificent and comparatively undeveloped Territory there are fabulous riches for future generations.

It embraces that fine timber and mineral (chiefly coal) country, in the east; with the important advantage of that beautiful sheet of water, Puget Sound, which renders it accessible to the deepest draughted vessels, for which excellent harbors are provided in the thousand sub-bays and inlets.

The richness of the soil in the eastern portion of the Territory is excelled nowhere. We have seen, on what little proportion of the land that is already under cultivation, an average production of fifty bushels of wheat to the acre; and there are exceptional cases where judicious farming has resulted in crops running as high as eighty bushels to the acre. This is no exaggeration, but what has come under our personal observation.

Barley, wheat, oats, and fruits yield plentifully in this locality. The soil is easy to cultivate, being light, and running deep will bear assiduous cultivation for years.

The portion of Washington Territory southeast of the Snake River, from Walla Walla Valley to Idaho, is generally possessed of the qualities above described, and the price of land, with a fair outlet for products, is as low as $2 per acre. North of the Snake River (which is navigable to Lewiston, Idaho), is equally rich country. Whitman and Stevens Counties, in this district, have millions of acres of Government lands unsettled. Stock raising is the principal industry now, but, as Mr. Stearns, of the "Guide to Oregon and Washington Territory," reflectively says, "The time will come when this country will be as rich and populous as Ohio." And judging from the number of new settlers who have preempted land in this country during the past year, we would add that the time will not be long coming.

The industries of Washington Territory in the east are in their infancy. Although several enterprises of more magnitude are contemplated we remember but one established of importance. That is the woolen mill at Dayton, a creditable institution, deserving of success, which we should think would be insured by its proximity to such an extensive stock country.

Principal among the industries of the western part of the Territory (on and in the neighborhood of the Sound and coast), are oyster and salmon fishing, coal mining, lumbering, and shipbuilding; of which latter there is considerable. Lumber manufacturing and coal mining are the principal industries, however; the shipments of each every year from the several Puget Sound ports being something enormous.

We were pleased with the exceedingly attractive appearance of this city and its pleasant location. Among the many picturesque towns and settlements on the Sound, not one can be selected to compare with this (in our opinion), where nature and public works combined have attained satisfactory results. The broad streets are regularly laid out and improved, and are lined with maple trees. There is regular steamer communication with all the Sound ports, and a daily stage connecting with the N. P. R.R. at Tenino. Olympia was incorporated in 1850, and has a population of 1,000. She boasts of schools and churches in plenty.

Walla Walla,

WALLA WALLA COUNTY,

Is favorably situated in one of the most fertile valleys and decidedly the best cultivated neighborhood in the Territory. It is distant 32 miles from the Columbia River at Wallula (with which point it has a primitive railroad connection), and about 310 miles from Portland. Perhaps Walla Walla is the most bustling country town we have ever seen. Enterprise and competition are apparent, and, as a consequence, the place has a magnetic effect on the surrounding country. Walla Walla is the county seat and has a population of about 3,000. Three weekly newspapers are published here. The hotels of Walla Walla are somewhat above the average, and especially does the St. Louis extend comfort and considerate treatment to the traveler.

UTAH.

Utah Territory extends from the thirty-seventh to the forty-second parallel of north latitude, and from the one hundred and ninth to the one hundred and fourteenth degree of west longitude, containing 65,000 square miles.

The country is very much broken, consisting mainly of mountain ranges, with intervening valleys. These valleys are rich and fertile, but generally needing irrigation. The mountains, so far as prospected, are very rich in mineral wealth.

Salt can be shoveled up in its crude state on the shores of the Great Salt Lake—the waters of the lake yielding by evaporation nearly a quarter of their weight in pure saline matter.

"Settlements were made in Utah as early as July, 1847. It originally formed part of Mexico, but by the treaty of Guadaloupe Hidalgo, in 1848, was ceded to the United States." "The melting of the snow in the mountains affords, in ordinary seasons, sufficient water to cultivate the valley successfully."

Salt Lake City,

SALT LAKE COUNTY.

This strangely interesting city is beautifully located at the foot of a spur of the Wasatch Mountains, about 20 miles east of the southern extremity of the Great Salt Lake, whence it derives its name. It an incorporated city and county seat of Salt Lake County. Has a population of about 20,000. It was located and built by the Mormons, the first part of whom arrived in the valley on the 24th of July, 1847. Its broad streets are laid out at right angles and bordered with shade trees. Each street has a stream of clear water gurgling down its sides, which comes from the mountain canyons, and gives the city an air of coolness and comfort not easily described. The first building which attracts one's attention is the Tabernacle, an immense [illegible] which at a little distance, looks like a huge bell, and is capable of seating 14,000 people.

Lewiston,

NEZ PERCES COUNTY.

Lewiston is at the head of navigation on the Snake River, ninety miles northeast of Walla Walla, W. T., and about two hundred miles from the estuary of the Columbia. Population, 650. It is nicely situated in a country which, when settled up, will be immensely productive. The Indian troubles in this section have somewhat stemmed the tide of immigration; but it will soon be generally known that only comparatively few of the aborigines are at all hostile, whilst hundreds are living peaceably on the reservation. The hostiles, at present writing, are being hunted in Montana by Gen. Howard.

Prescott,

YAVAPAI COUNTY.

Prescott, so named in honor of the American statesman and historian, is the seat of Yavapai County, Arizona, and is located on a beautiful plateau in the lap of the Sierra Prietta Mountains, and at an altitude of about 6,500 feet. The town site was located June, 1864, by a commission consisting of three persons elected by the citizens. On the 9th day of December, 1872, the town was regularly incorporated under the name and style of the Village of Prescott. Prescott was the first capital of the Territory, and aside from being already the principal and wealthiest town in the Territory, it is the center around which vast mining, agricultural, lumber, stock and wool-raising interests are fast growing up and developing. It has an average population at this time of over 3,000 souls, of which at least seven-eighths are whites. There are about eight hundred houses in the village, including the largest stores and public buildings, and the most beautiful residences in the territory; a State House, part stone and part brick, and a brick school house, unquestionably the grandest structures in Arizona; three churches, two newspapers, and about one hundred and fifty places of business. The seat of government was removed from Prescott in the year 1867, and after an absence of ten years it was returned—1877. Camp Whipple, half a mile north of Prescott, is the principal military depot of the Territory.

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

British Columbia sprang into existence, as a colony, only in 1858, and consequent on the extensive gold discoveries. Previously it had been traversed and partially occupied only by the fur traders, first of the Northwest, and afterwards by the Hudson's Bay Companies. The adjacent island of Vancouver, separated from the mainland by a narrow channel, had been partially colonized some years before. In 1866 the island and main land were united as one colony, and subsequently the united colony became confederated as a Province of the Dominion of Canada. The limits of the Province are thus described: Coterminous on the south with the United States, Territory of Washington, the 49th parallel of north latitude from the boundary line from the Gulf of Georgia to the summit of the Rocky Mountains, which it intersects in longitude one hundred and fourteen degrees west, there touching on the Dominion territory of the northwest; thence along the summit of the Rocky Mountains to the parallel of Mount St. Elias, to about latitude sixty-two degrees; thence southward as far as fifty-four degrees forty minutes, along the strip of coast line, ten marine leagues in width, formerly occupied by Russia, recently purchased by the United States, and now forming part of the Territory of Alaska; thence southward to the entrance of the Strait of Fuca, including Queen Charlotte and Vancouver Island, and the vast archipelago connected therewith.

Sproat impartially writes of British Columbia as follows:

"The occupation of gold mining exists still as the principal industry of British Columbia and as an unfailing attraction to population—four and one-half million sterling having been exported within ten years—but other industries have appeared and promise well. The chief of these has been coal. Within ten years 330,395 tons of coal have been shipped from Nanaimo. Many articles of provincial produce, besides gold and coal, namely, lumber (sawn wood), furs, hides, wool, fish, cranberries, etc., figure now in the list of exports. A small settlement of practical experienced men is found in nearly every district that is suitable for farming. Such men know, in some degree, what their own land will produce or support, and they also have a general idea of the extent of similar land near to them.

"The country is divided into two perfectly distinct parts, Vancouver Island and the mainland. These were constituted colonies—the first in 1849, and the second in 1858; they were then united in 1866, under the name of British Columbia, and so continued until the 20th of July, 1871, at which date the colony became one of the Provinces of the flourishing Dominion of Canada.

"With greater correctness, perhaps, it may be said that the Province is divided into three instead of into two distinct parts.

"The Rocky Mountains form the western boundary of the Province. Speaking in a general sort of way, it may be said that a long and massive uplift of the mainland, called the Cascade Range, runs parallel to the Rocky Range, and divides the country between it and the Pacific Ocean into two divisions, namely, the 'East Cascade region' and the 'West Cascade region.'

"The islands of Vancouver, Queen Charlotte, etc., might be considered to make a third division, though, climatically, they belong to the West Cascade region."

CLIMATE.—This is, perhaps, the main point in choosing a place for a home. British Columbia may be said to be the very land of health, for man, beast and tree. This fact will have a very influence on her future. The climate is variable, but healthful and agreeable. Nights cool. The altitude, irregularity of surface, serene air and absence of marshy plains. No malarious agues. Over a great portion of the Province the climate is that of England, but without the biting east winds. Over another portion, the climate resembles that of France. The larger lakes do not freeze over, nor do the rivers ever close entirely. Severe winters seem to come about, but what we call "severe winters" are less severe than ordinary winters East.

Nanaimo,

VANCOUVER DISTRICT,

Situated about 75 miles from Victoria, on the eastern shore of Vancouver Island, and is the shipping point for the extensive coal fields in that district. It is a thriving business town, of about 1,200 inhabitants, and the center for a much larger number of people if the mining population is taken into consideration. It has bi-weekly communication with Victoria by Spratt's commodious steamer "Cariboo Fly." The Sitka steamers call here.

New Westminster,

NEW WESTMINSTER DISTRICT,

Incorporated city, favorably situated for trade, on the Fraser, just above the junction of the North Fork, 75 miles from Victoria, with which place it has steamer communication twice a week. This city, from its favorable position on a river that is second to none in commercial importance on the coast (for it is the outlet of a great agricultural and mining country), bids fair in a few years to be a provincial center. Present population, 1,600. Meteorological observations are taken at this place by Mr. A. Peele, for the United States Signal Service and the Royal Observatory at Toronto. Health accommodation above the average, the Occident comparing favorably with any in the Province.

Victoria,

VICTORIA DISTRICT,

Is the Capital of the Province, the seat of Government, the headquarters of all Dominion and local institutions, public associations and institutions in British Columbia. The city is beautifully situated at the southeastern extremity of Vancouver Island, distant about 70 miles from New Westminster, on the Fraser River, three hours from Port Townsend, 65 miles from the ocean, and about 750 miles—or three to four days voyage by steamer—from San Francisco, California. The position of Victoria, both as a distributing point for the Province at large, and as a market for foreign trade, is extremely favorable. Larger vessels discharge at Esquimalt, 3 miles distant—an excellent harbor, Victoria can boast of the finest system of roads on the Pacific coast. The sidewalks and drives are admirable, the latter being all macadamized. Adjoining the city is a public park, known as Beacon Hill, a very picturesque resort and deservedly popular. The city is neat and substantially built, and possesses many remarkably handsome public buildings, business blocks and private dwellings. The population is about 8,000. It also possesses many important manufacturing and business enterprises. The hotels are the Driard House (a very handsome structure with superior accommodations), Temperance, St. Lawrence, American, Angel, Colonial, Occidental, Oriental, and several boarding houses; also a commodious lodging house, the St. Nicholas.
